This one day meeting will be the fourth in a series of recent working days of the Institute of Corrosion’s Corrosion Engineering Division (previous meetings were held at Birmingham, Buxton and Warrington). The meeting will be held at The National Physical Laboratory, Teddington, Middlesex. The meeting will start with two plenary lectures on novel corrosion prevention technologies, as shown in the programme below. This will be followed by meetings of the CED working groups (see overleaf for a list of the working groups) combined with a short tour of NPL’s corrosion laboratories, in small groups. Where possible, agendas for the working group meetings will be published separately in advance on the CED web site (http://www.icorr.org/branches/corrosion_engineering_division.phtml). These meetings will include separate topical presentations arranged by the chairs of the individual working groups. There will also be time for discussions and formulation of future activities of the groups. The meeting will close with a final plenary lecture on another aspect of novel corrosion prevention technologies. This working day will be a good opportunity to network with other corrosion professionals from different industry sectors. For information on becoming involved with CED working parties please see the CED web site or contact the Chair of CED, Nick Smart (nick.smart@serco.com). For registration to attend the meeting, please complete and return the registration form overleaf.
